The Fry Group Presentation

(An Inside View from a Professional Practice)

Tax and financial planning is usually a daunting, but necessary, part of life for expatriates. Whether you have recently arrived in Thailand, have decided to remain here indefinitely, are planning a return to the UK or a move to a new overseas location.

With so many legislation changes over the years, specific tax planning has been made very difficult, so that what you perhaps knew yesterday, may not necessarily apply tomorrow! Do you really know where you stand?

Well, fear not, on Wednesday 25th April 2012 (7pm) at the Grand Hyatt Erawan Hotel (Bangkok), Martin Rimmer and Martin Wright from the Fry Group will be looking at some of the main UK Tax and Financial Planning issues such as:

- UK Statutory Residency Rule Changes
- UK Domicile Origin & Choice
- UK Inheritance tax an overview and some mitigation ideas
- Tax Efficient Retirement Income (UK/Thailand Issues) & UK Pension Legislation changes April 2011 & April 2012!

A Q&A session will follow the seminar and attendees will also have an opportunity to discuss specific issues with both Martins afterwards over drinks and a Buffet Dinner.

Both Martins will also be available for individual meetings in Bangkok on Wednesday 25th to Friday 27th April. Please feel free to come along for a chat to discuss any particular issues that you may have.

About the speaker:

Qualified to ATT level, Martin is Manager of the International Tax team at The Fry Group. Martin is a specialist in expatriate tax issues including residence, domicile, tax mitigation and tax planning.

LETTER FROM THE GENERAL MANAGER

Dear Members,

When you read this, I will have completed my first month as General Manager of the Club. I would like to first of all thank the Search Committee and General Committee for going through the process which resulted in my appointment, and also to all the Members with whom I have spoken up until now; I do appreciate all of your supportive words and good wishes.

I gather that I am the second youngest General Manager ever appointed in the long history of our Club, which I see as an honour even though it will also bring its challenges. I sincerely believe that by building an equally strong relationship with both Club Members and staff as well as with senior management, we will be able to move the Club forward and improve its already good services and facilities.

As one of my first major tasks I was delighted to appoint Jeremy de Sausmarez to the team of senior managers, in the position of Events & Marketing Manager. Jeremy was the Editor of Outpost for the past two years and thus knows the Club well. Jeremy will be looking after the planning of our popular events, as well as keeping our website up-to-date with all events and assisting with this magazine.

On Thursday 8th March I was privileged to attend the 2012 Annual General Meeting to hear members thoughts on the Club and to witness the election of the new GC 2012-2013, whose names appear later in this issue of Outpost. It was a good learning experience and helped me become more familiar with the Club's internal workings. As most will know by now, Phil Alexander was subsequently elected as Chairman of the General Committee for this coming year.

Last but not least, I will be around the Club premises a lot and hope to meet everyone whom I haven't yet met. My focus for the coming months is to get to know everybody, and to make and keep our beloved Club a safe, clean and enjoyable environment for Members of all ages. If you want to meet me and unload your rants and raves, I have instituted a monthly "Open Office" hour on every last Saturday of each month from 3pm to 4pm. I will be doing this at varying Club locations: in March it was in the Churchill Bar. In April, it will be the Surawong Sala. No need to sign up, just show up!

This year, hopefully, we will get started on some needed repairs: the Surawong Sala needs some TLC and the swimming pool will hopefully be refurbished in the summer of 2012. Keep an eye on this section for more info about our Club!

Warmest regards,

Joost Paijmans General Manager

HAPPENINGS

Dear Members,

It is less than a fortnight since I ceased being a Club Member and became a member of the staff here, and that is interesting if only because it means a completely different perspective on what happens, and how, during an average Club day.

There has been a lull in the events here for a number of months, and some of the activities which used to take place on a regular, or sometimes spontaneous, basis have faded and fizzled out. It would be easy, but in my opinion foolish, to simply schedule them again immediately, without prior consideration of their value to Members and whether or not they met their objectives for those who attended. I am therefore working on a long list of previous and possible future events while they are discussed and evaluated before rescheduling them into the calendar. I would seriously welcome your opinions and ideas on what you would like to see provided under the events umbrella, as well as your comments on what is good or bad about existing events and activities. Please let me know!

We are currently working on April, which is of course the peak season for mangoes, and there will be a number of special mango concoctions on offer. More importantly, April will feature the annual exciting and slightly fairytale Easter Day celebrations, which will include finding eggs hidden in the Club garden, a magic show and an Easter-themed movie in addition to other children's activities and of course a special Easter lunch/brunch buffet. By the time you read this, we will already have our homemade Hot Cross Buns available, and they really are delicious toasted with butter or whatever else you may add! For any chocoholics out there, Khun Laak will also be preparing the chocolate variety, and as before the Club will have a selection of Easter chocolates for sale - details to follow on a Club poster or in an email.

April in Thailand is famous for Songkran, as much for those who love it as for those who go to any length to avoid it! At the Club, we try to cover both emotions with a suitable function, and as the weather promises to be roasting, it seems logical to celebrate Songkran on Saturday 14th April when there will be a Water Fun Day complemented by a special Thai Buffet for both lunch and dinner - this is definitely a great opportunity for kids to enjoy getting wet whilst adults enjoy staying dry! Travelling over Songkran weekend is ghastly and less than safe, so let's settle in and chill out here at the Club and enjoy the break appropriately.

Nearer the end of the month we will be having a Club Birthday party outside, where we set up a full bar, with a 'self-choose barbeque', some activities and music topped off with a Club Cake - once again, we want this to be good so I cannot give you the exact details yet, but you will probably have heard by the time Outpost is delivered.

I am also in the process of looking at the website and the functions it offers the Club. I have already exchanged emails with a number of Members in relation to the mailing system, and our new GM Joost is also looking into the whole role of the Club's computer system. Your feedback, regardless of its tone or content, is enormously important, as are the frustrations which I know many of you shoulder in your dealings with the Club's events, bookings and information dispersal. Get it off your chest and on to the keyboard!

My joining the Club at this time with a GM who has ideas and commitment is an opportunity for me to help make membership of the Club that much more worthwhile. I'm grateful to Joost for giving me the chance, and hope you will also gain and benefit from my efforts.

F&B MORSELS

Dear Members,

I would like to thank you all for your patronage of our F&B outlets around the Club. We have just passed the busiest months of the year for the Club, so we are now ready to review our menus once again.

Over the next few weeks I will be introducing a new snack menu, available at Happy Hour in the Churchill Bar and also around the Club, so watch out for tent cards on the tables. We are also going to create more themed buffets and dinners, like a Caribbean night, Italian night or all-Asian buffets; any suggestions from Members are welcome, of course.

In addition, we will also be re-introducing Gourmet Dinners and Wine Dinners, both of which have been popular events in the past, and details of the first one should be ready in the next couple of weeks.

April holds a lot for F&B; it is mango season so the Mango Promotion which started in March will continue, there is the special Easter Day buffet and 400 eggs to be boiled for the kids egg-hunt, the special Thai buffet at Songkran, and of course a special cake and other food for the Club's Birthday Party on the 21st of April.

Keep your feedback coming, and as always, happy eating!

PAST PARTICIPLE Auspicium Melioris Ævi

By Paul Cheesman

We look back at events of 1974 ...

Rising food prices and a new labour law meant that early in 1974 we had to increase staff salaries between 20% and 30% to meet the new law, and increase our overtime rates as well as the medical cover given to staff. Unfortunately we did not manage this well and by August the staff was threatening to strike as the overtime had not been paid and the bonus on 'recycled' bottles had disappeared. Thankfully all was amicably resolved and all staff members were additionally granted new uniforms with their names embroidered on them.

"Extra! Extra! Read all about it!"

Member communication was a key theme of the year, and it was agreed that the 'Circular', a regularly produced Roneo sheet, should be replaced by a British Club Newsletter with glossy cover (see insert). The first was produced in May 1974 to much acclaim and this continued until the production of the first Outpost Magazine in 1980. This also led to the first printed Annual Report & Directory.

The Club's finances took a heavy toll over the year as food costs escalated, staff cost increased (noted above), electricity costs jumped and then the Chartered Bank increased the interest on our huge loan and overdraft (see February's article) to 12%. The first reaction was to heavily increase fees - Married Gentlemen from 200ß to 250ß per month, single Gentlemen from 150ß to 200ß, Ladies Privileges from 75ß to 100ß and Upcountry members from 50ß to 75ß; the second was to increase all food prices by 10%. Unfortunately this caused a huge loss in membership which dropped from 475 in February to just 402 at year end.

'Suffer the little children' was certainly up for grabs as the new Club motto this year. In January a spate of pranks (such as placing fire crackers under cars and throwing them onto the tennis courts during play) lead to a Committee clamp down on kids - 'The wrath' came down on all parents concerned. However by August, it was the teenagers who were in trouble such that they were promptly banned from the Billiards Room and the Bar at all times.

Finally, it seems that children were not the only pests in the Club ... an inspection in late August found white ants, termites, death watch beetles and powder post beetles. This resulted in the Club being closed from 9th to 12th September whilst the whole place was seriously fumigated.

A monthly peek into our rulebook for things you probably did not know!

SPOUSES

A SPOUSE is defined as a member's married partner or acknowledged common law partner. Our Constitution uses the British legal term 'common law partner' as there is no Thai equivalent thus although defining marriage is easy, we rely on a member's integrity on defining 'who you live with' when placing a spouse on your 'Family membership'.

Rule 59 (a) (ii) has all the details.

HOT CROSS BUNS

Khun Boonchao, our baker, will once again be making the Club's famous Hot Cross Buns.

HOLIDAYS & FESTIVALS

By Paul Cheesman

I was amazed at how few members I spoke to knew the meaning of Shrove Tuesday (Pancake Day). Even fewer knew what Makha Bucha day was about, so I decided to pen a series each month on the different Western and Thai holy days and festivals.

..... THIS IS APRIL

This is a Thai holiday which celebrates the present royal Chakri dynasty being founded when on 6th April 1782 General Maha Kshatriyaseuk was crowned King of Siam. In later years he was given the full title Phrabat Somdet Phra Buddha Yodfa Chulaloke or King Rama I. The present King Bhumibol Adulyadej is Rama IX in the same style. One of first acts of King Rama I was to move the Siamese capital from Thonburi to Bangkok and by the end of his reign in 1809 Siam controlled much of present day Laos and Cambodia.

This is a Christian holiday which celebrates the death on a cross of Jesus, the Son of God, as a means of payment for the sins or wrongdoings of mankind. Under the Old Testament Law a sacrifice was required to cleanse a man from sin. Christians celebrate this day with Hot Cross Buns (a currant bun with a cross on the top served hot or toasted). The Oxford English Dictionary dates this culinary practice from 1733 but others believe it was a Saxon tradition. Hot Cross Buns are on sale at the Club. See page 11.

This is a Christian holiday which celebrates that three days after his death (on Good Friday) Jesus rose from the dead and thus faith in him would give salvation to all mankind. Christians celebrate this day by giving children Easter Eggs (usually chocolate but originally painted real eggs) as eggs are seen as a sign of new life. Some countries traditionally hold egg races; others roll eggs down a hill. The Club will hold an Easter Egg hunt as is our tradition. See page 15.

April 13th to 17th (April 19th onward in Pattaya) April 13th is the Therevadin Buddhist New Year Day and in most of Thailand the New Year celebration lasts for three days. However as two of these days are a Saturday and Sunday the following Monday and Tuesday are substitute days so the festival this year is five days long. Pattaya is traditionally one week later in its celebrations. Although most people only see Songkran as a water throwing festival, it was traditionally a time to pay respect to one's elders and to monks, and to clean the Buddha images at household shrines and in monasteries. Sadly the water throwing has escalated in the past decade so be prepared not to stay dry! Members are reminded that throwing water in the Club is not permitted. See page 14.

KIDS

SUNDAY PANCAKE FUNDAY

Heralded as "Shrove Tuesday on a Sunday", over a hundred and fifty Members, their kids, and friends from Bangkok St. George's Society took part in the Funday. The Fun started with the Bouncy Castle, face painting and lots of ball games on the All-Weather Court, intermixed with delicious pancakes made whilst you waited from Khun Laak and her team.

Then came the pancake races! It could not have been easier ... run to the 10m line, toss the pancake, then run to the next 10m line well, we tried. 46 kids took part and many won, a few actually tossed their pancakes, one actually tossed the pan (luckily no one was in the way) and several managed to eat the pancake en route!

But it was a Funday after all, so every kid won a medal and everyone had a good time, as well as going home full of delicious pancakes! Well done to Paul, Rit, Amnat, their helpers, and of course everyone who took part.

Travels in the Cevennes (without a donkey) - Part 2

By Ray & Jenny Harries

It was a very long walk into Le Pont de Montvert that evening as the route had been changed from that marked on the map and also in our book. The old route actually went right through the communal gite where we had booked to stay, but the new route stayed high on the hills outside the town, dropped down steeply to the centre and we then had to walk a kilometre back out of the town to find our accommodation.

Le Pont de Montvert is a very popular mountain town with ancient houses and narrow streets, and it was very busy the Sunday night we were there. However the next morning, everyone was still sleeping when we left at first light around 7am for another long day's walk. This day was one of the highlights of the whole trip with an 11 kilometre walk along the Bouges ridge to Florac, the capital of the Cevennes. The weather was beautiful, clear and sunny and as it got really hot after midday we were pleased to start a long descent through shady forests. Here again we heard the shots of hunters all around us and then came across four men loading dead boar into a truck accompanied by very fierce looking dogs. After the previous

After the previous five long days of walking we were pleased to have a rest day in Florac, particularly as it is a very pretty town, definitely with a feel of southern France. As opposed to the grey stone houses of the towns and villages so far, we now had the red tiled roofs and coloured walls of Mediterranean France. An underground stream emerges in the centre of Florac and flows down terraces along medieval streets lined with plane trees. We had a lovely room in the attic of an ancient house in the centre of town. We got all our washing done at the launderette across the street and hung it to dry in the sunshine in the pretty garden and spent a peaceful rest day exploring the town.

We left Florac suitably refreshed for the last five days of our walk, thinking that we had done the hardest part; certainly from Florac to Cassagnas to Pont de Burgen and then St Jean du Gard was easy walking. Part of the way to Cassagnas is along a disused railway line, through tunnels but always on the flat above the Mimente Valley. The next day we climbed a high ridge again with the Mimente Valley. The next day we climbed a high ridge again with great views and then down through forests of chestnut trees eventually to Pont de Burgen where the gite was in a very ancient collection of farm buildings with dormitories and bedrooms all leading into each other. We shared this place with five other people, all French. The food cooked by the patron was excellent and all home produced. We had kir made with elderflower syrup and white wine, a superb salad of baked aubergine and chopped tomatoes, veal in red wine and pasta, cheese and fresh raspberries and ice cream, very simple and all delicious.

The next day was quite a short day so we lingered chatting to the patron over breakfast until 9am and then left for the final part of the Chemin Stevenson to St Jean du Gard. There was one final steep climb, which went relentlessly upward for two hours. We stopped for a picnic at the top and then had to descend again on a steep and rocky path to walk alongside the river Gardon until we reached the gite on the outskirts of St Jean du Gard.

We walked into St Jean du Gard the following day and spent the morning exploring the town, visiting the Cevennes museum, which was very interesting, and having our photo taken at the statue and sign which denotes the end of the Chemin Stevenson. We then stet off for the final 27 km to Ales. We had decided not to do this stretch in one day, as the ridge walk is said to be quite demanding. So we merely walked 6km to a superb little gite in the tiny hamlet of Audibert. This, like the gite at Pont du Burgen, was a confusing, rambling building which had been well restored by a young couple who were very welcoming. We were the only walkers staying there and our meal and sunset drinks were served on the terrace overlooking the valley.

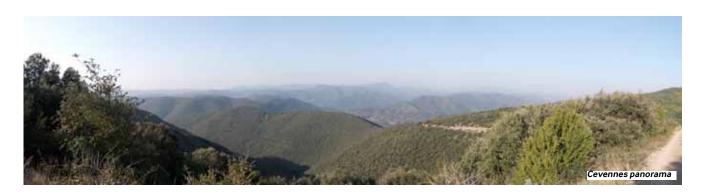

The next morning for our final day we set off very early to walk the demanding ridge to Alès. To begin with it seemed quite simple and although we heard hunters shooting all around us we did not see anyone for miles. Then gradually the ridge became sharper and rockier and we had to scramble from one limestone ledge to the next. We lost count of how many small hills we climbed and descended carefully, always watching our step, until finally we stood on the high ridge overlooking Alès and knew that we had a two hour descent into the town. We arrived in the middle of town on a Saturday afternoon looking like the hot, sweaty and tired walkers that we were and checked into a smart little hotel with comfortable beds, plenty of hot water and large fluffy towels.

This was a great walk, through very varied countryside, demanding at times but nowhere near as difficult or long as our previous walks in France or elsewhere. The only disaster we had was on the first day when Ray's boots fell apart but he managed to get a very comfortable new pair and carried on walking. We met some lovely people, nearly all French, had great meals with lots of homemade food, particularly the jams at breakfast. Apart from two cold wet days, the weather in September was beautiful and ideal for walking. Our feet held out with no blisters and our new boots are now well broken in and ready for the next walk.

SPORT & LEISURE

By Paul Ringer

Dear Members,

It's April, it's very hot, and you still want to do sport and leisure???? Farang baa or ting tong as the Thais would say.

Well, seeing as it's soooooo hot and seeing as it's every Thai persons' favorite time of year there's going to be a lot of cooling activity going on at the BC, well, at least for the kids, that is.

Paul

SUNDAY CYCLE:

Due to only a moderate amount of interest we had to postpone March's Sunday Cycle. I am however determined to get this idea off the ground and as such have set a new date of Sunday 29 April.

Cycling in Bangkok, rather than being a stupid and dangerous thing to do, can actually be very safe, quiet and relaxing, if not a little hot and sweaty. There are a million interesting places to go and things to see. It's not all a concrete jungle, and you'd be surprised just how much green and peace and quiet there is only a couple of sois back from the main roads.

So if you like to discover new places and see things a bit like this;

Please get in touch for more details.

Sports Camp & Mini Sports Camp:

SQUASHY BITS

By Bruce Madge

You Plonker!

We'll get to him/them shortly, but first is the latest GENUINE SQUASH news from the BCB Squash Section. There's very little of it so it's once again buttered up and padded out with the usual lies, half-truths and complete rubbish:

Tom Kelly won Feb's Premier League. He's the best apart from H. Chris Childs triumphed in League One, Rit took League Two while not one game was played in League Three as all its players had been murdered the night before by Cat Flap in a caffeine induced, Coke Zero overdose, temper tantrum tizz brought on by intense envy as he's out injured and those he brutally slain aren't. (Well, they are now as they're dead!) Thus, Gary Pain, JCES, Bernard Matthews, Ian Hornbill and Genghis Khan have all snuffed it like Kimmi Jongi Illie selfishly did on his way back from Jeen a moon or three ago. The cops were on the case, but apparently Barn Door paid them off after he'd slung the corpses over the fence at the Sriracha Tiger Zoo which has over 200 starving Tiggers and about 10,000 crocodiles that feasted upon the decaying bodies and left not a trace. Excellent work there from Fire Exit and the animals, yet the job was not really completed satisfactorily as Den's corpse wasn't also amongst those devoured at the zoo since he'd declined to play in Feb's leagues as he'd got a sore thumb. What a plonker! Let's just hope that Back Door flies into another Coke Zero rage rather sharpish and knocks Den off and slings him to the crocks along with the others who probably deserved it. By the way, for those new to the Bits column, those that have poor memories, or those who are just plain dumb, Cat Flap, Barn Door, Fire Exit and Back Door are all pseudonyms for David Eastgate. Not a criminal, but a fine man.

Moving on now to the main item of stunningly interesting and indubitable squash reporting: we made the semi-finals of the TSRA (Thai Squash Rackets Association) Wednesday Team League thingy. Captained by Neil 'Wally' Evans we'd lost only one match throughout the season and looked sure to win our semi-final, breeze through the final and take the title and first prize of a dead giraffe. That was until Captain Kirk realized he'd only got two players available from our named squad of five. How could this be? Where was H? Well, he was still on his way back from the Falklands. However, he landed just in time to save Evans from the sack as he sped straight from the airport to the RBSC to join the other two. Brilliant! But, no as H lost due to knackerdness after flying for 11,000 hours. So in we went to the third and fourth place play-off match the following evening. Or rather we didn't as upon that eve Captain Calamity was sitting quietly at home, feet up, sipping dealing loveable spiv. Laurence is Mickey Pearce - nice, makes ginger ale and watching reruns of Countdown. Someone hadn't told him, had they? Or, more likely, he'd forgotten all about it. Another plonker! We came fourth! But, at least it gave H and me a right laugh a few nights later over some Tiger Beer in the Churchill Bar, and the 'plonker' tag got us talking about the characters from Only Fools and Horses and whether the BCB had any equivalents and we came to the agreement that it definitely does have a few. And so in no particular order, but saving the best till last: Ray Harris is Uncle Albert - got the voice, the hair and the old stories. Swampy was Grandad - miserable, moody and abusive. Marc Sayer is Boycie without a doubt - an over-optimistic wheeling dealing loveable spiv. Laurence is Mickey Pearce nice, but dim, laughs too much, makes stupid comments, but harmless. JCS is Trigger - probably very intelligent underneath, but comes across as completely thick. Denzil is Colin Hastings - not got the same skin colour, but all the same he's here and there with lots of ideas, most of them rubbish. Kasem, is Mike from behind the bar in the Nag's Head - not that bright, efficient, though rather erratic. That leaves the two main stars of Rodney and Del Boy. Well, there's only one candidate for Rodney the Plonker and that's Neil Evans - gullible, overly-sensible, and a total wally. So who is Del? There could only be one candidate; he's in the Churchill Bar most evenings, he comes in dressed in the finest of tailored suits, his cuff-linked, pink shirts are hand-made and have his initials on them, he drinks shots of high-class Russian vodka, he smokes huge cigars, he wheels and deals several Fantasy Football leagues, is a natural salesman and even has the voice and mannerisms of Britain's favourite would-be miwwionaire. The BCB's new Chairman, Mr. Phillip Alexander. Spot on.

Until we all become miwwionaires.....

HARD BALLS By Squire Legge

30 years ago, a bunch of enthusiastic Rhodesian tobacco growers got together to lay a new cricket square at the Chiang Mai Gymkhana Club, to revive cricket after a 62 year break. They were a very good team and the British Club was amongst their first guests. 21 Club Members including wives, kids and one mother-in-law made it a family weekend, travelling up by train. The hospitality was magnificent, the somewhat inebriated team being met off the train by a fleet of tobacco company vans to rest awhile at the nearby Railway Hotel. CMGC had thrashed RBSC the previous day and the BC boys were less than confident, but a splendid game ensued, BC losing by just 5 runs having wanted only 15 with 5 wickets in hand. Several of that team are still in town; Jack Dunford was captain, Brian Brook scored 50, Robin Hyde and Chris Platt are still somewhere around, and Bob Maloy was loaned to us by CMGC. The split-pig roast BBQ was sumptuous and we promised we would be back.

And we kept coming back, 35 Club Members returning in January for the 30th Anniversary Tour, with Squash and Tennis now also part of the tradition. In this namby-pamby age everyone flies in by their airline of choice and some stay in very posh hotels, but pretty much everything else is the same. The picturesque ground has become even more beautiful with thirty more years' growth on the trees and the choice of beer is positively bewildering compared with the good old days of just Amarit and Singha and maybe the odd Kloster.

As usual a practice match was played on the Saturday to give everyone a game and 6 young Thai players were brought in to make up numbers. Two hopefully evenly matched teams were picked to play for Rahul's Vindaloo Burgers vs. Vaughan's Aussie Armpits, and it could hardly have been closer. There were 6 scores of about 30, the retiring score, but ominously only 3 were by BC players: Jem (35), Vaughan (30) and Richard's nephew Matt (30), who was judged much too young to be eligible for the big boy's game the next day. We all dismissed CMGC's Wani's 33 off 10 balls as a fluke because he never gets runs against us, does he? One of his huge sixes smashed a window high up in the score box. Wanting two to win off the last ball, Rahul ran Corin out leaving Vaughan's AA winners by 1 run.

After a splendid night under the tree, classic entertainment by Richard and Chris (I adder, I adder, I adder ...) and far too much beer, it was time for the Dick Wood Trophy, which was inaugurated in 1983. We got thrashed last year when CM brought in a couple of ex-Test player ringers and so were somewhat reassured when this year they told us they were only fielding members and their average age was 49.2. We worked ours out at 49.9 so hopefully things were more or less even.

Now, as all Hard Balls readers will know, BC's only winning formula is for its top three batsmen to score the mandatory 40 not out so that everyone else can have a fling and if necessary allow the stars back to finish things off. And we normally like to bat second. On losing the toss, we batted first and our top three batsmen, club medic, Nick White, Captain Dale Lamb and Vice-Captain Vaughan McClear, scored precisely 8 between them, 112 under par. (Later in the innings, Richard Harvey scored 12 off 5 balls to put that in perspective).

However, Rahul (32) got his head down, and veteran David Dance after a shaky start retired for a splendid 41 off 41 balls. Corin has gone off the boil after a breezy start to the season and scored 11 off 27 balls, with Jem(17) and Sailesh (10) the other run scorers as BC finally scraped a (not too bad, considering) 158 for 8.

BC's bowling has been better than its batting this year and Nick White (1 for 29), Anthony (1 for 34), Rahul (2 for 33) and Sailesh (3 for 17) all bowled well. At 64 for 6 off 14 overs this began to look like BC's day. The only problem was that CMGC appeared to have been holding back some of their best batting, including Wani, who never gets runs against us, does he? Well he does, now, twice in two days ... this time 45 off 18 balls! The remaining 98 runs came off 8 overs and CM romped home by 3 wickets with 7 overs to spare!

Ah well, that's played 5, won one, lost 4 this season, but one thing we are good at is having a good time and this year we had 30 years to celebrate. There is a missing score book which makes all statistics a bit dodgy, but as best as we can tell this was our 33rd tour to CM, years we missed being off-set by years we went twice. We have played at least 38 matches against the Gymkhana Club and our splendid record is won 12, lost 26!

All the individual playing records belong to those who played in the earlier years since we played far more cricket in those days. Having been on all the tours Jack Dunford has played most games (at least 34) and taken most wickets (41 (Q16) but the real stars have been highest run scorer Nick White (570 runs (Q 38) and best all-rounder David Dance (356 runs (Q59 and 21 wickets (Q 8).

Over 100 players have played for both BC and CMGC over the years and almost every one of them will carry happy memories of their tours to Chiang Mai for the rest of their lives. The weekend was rounded off with a special 30th anniversary cake and no less than three bottles of vodka slammers sent everyone away promising to keep coming back for at least another 30 years.

BCGS GOLFING NEWS

February Medal: The Royal GC: Lat Krabang Sunday 4 March 2012

We are still not there yet but we are making progress: February's medal was a little behind schedule but it is now confirmed that the March medal competition will be played in March!! Nonetheless, there was a good turn-out of regular members as well as guests Tyson and Jib Powers, Parin, Athirij and Teewasaki. Making a welcome return from his travels was Simon Fisher (1), seen here on the receiving end of some valuable (?) advice from one of our more experienced regulars.

The heat and humidity, it appears are once again upon us (2) which, together with slightly blustery conditions, may have accounted for the less than average scoring. Or perhaps the prospect of picking up some silverware at the Annual Presentation later in the evening may have been foremost in the minds of some.

Playing the steadiest golf of all and what looks like a return to form saw David Lamb hit the top in Flight 'B' with a net score of 71 (3). John Underwood finished in 2nd place one stroke behind.

Flight 'A' was similarly closely contested but Mark Evans (4) played to handicap and edged out Tracy for the main prize.

Trophies Presentation Evening and AGM at the British Club

Immediately after the Medal competition, most returned to the British Club for the Society's AGM. The evening began with reports from the Captain and committee, followed by the election of new committee members for 2012.

A note of thanks was expressed to Andrew McLean, Tracy Carter and Peter Bond for all their support and efforts on behalf of the Golf Section.

Unfortunately they are taking a break from the committee as is our Captain, Ray Bloom. His hard work, cheerfulness and humour as well as his achievements as Captain over the course of the year were recognized and very much appreciated by all.

And then came the highlight of the evening, the 'Frank & Karen Show'; sorry, that should read 'The Annual Trophies Presentation'. This event recognizes the achievements of our members over the course of the past year's golf competitions. Replicas of trophies were presented not only to major competitions winners but also to the winners of the Medal Eclectics, Match play competitions, golfer of the year, most improved golfer and a host of other 'technical' prize winners.

One of our most senior and highly respected members, David Lamb, kindly volunteered to make the awards (photos 5 - 14).

Following the presentation, everyone sat back to enjoy a splendid carvery dinner laid on by the BC catering staff.

Balut Cups Night 2012

Our annual Cups tournament took place on Saturday 10th March in the Suriwongse Room. It was disappointing that this year the Singaporean baluteers had already confrimed attendance at another tournament in Malaysia so were unable to join us for our annual Cups Night. However, there was still an impressive turnout, despite a small band of intrepid suburbanites taking the wrong turnoff on the way and ending up mid Bangkok Saturday rush-hour! We were happy to welcome a total of 30 players, comprised of 17 BCB Section Members playing for the Balut Cup, 4 'youngsters' playing for the Juniors Cup, and 9 Guests playing for the All Comers Cup.

The buffet spread was laid out at 6pm and everyone tucked in with a hearty gusto, as this year the snacks had been overhauled to include oysters, and scrumptious they were too! The balcony nearby was witness to joviality and pre-game strategies, until the attendants were all present and the evening was kicked off with a welcome from the Section Chairman, TC (Phil Alexander), followed by details of play and most notably the spot prizes clearly outlined by Bowling Ball (Bob Van Es), the BCB Section Secretary. And then the throwing commenced.

Six games were played in all, with very erratic scoring and some significant lows off-setting reasonable highs but not as high as everyone had hoped. The first two spot prizes were taken quickly and efficiently by Shanghai (Paul Williams), the others to regular players and one to Mutton (John Boisclair) after a long absence at the Balut tables.

It was all over too soon, though with the scorer DQ's usual panache the final scores were withheld from the screen until the results could be announced and the prizes awarded as follows:

	BALUT CUPS NIGHT 2012
BALUT CUP	Bob Van Es	634
JUNIOR CUP	Andy Williams	565
ALL COMERS CUP	Kristian Bonnichsen	638
HIGHEST SINGLE SCORE	Lawrence Fay	145
LOWEST SINGLE SCORE	Lawrence Fay	49

Full results can be seen online at: http://tinyurl.com/77n76lb and thanks to all for making it such a great night!

ETHICS IN BRIDGE (Part 2)

Further to last month's article, there is an additional situation where unethical play is seen. Declarer leads a card (it matters not whether towards dummy or his hand) and the player in 4th seat detaches a card before it is his turn to play). 1) He is ostensibly giving information to his partner (I can follow suit partner) and 2) he is implying that, whatever cards are played before his turn, the card he has detached will be the one he plays. If, when it is his turn, he replaces the detached card and plays another, declarer can call the tournament director who should rule that the detached card is the one that should be played. Where the play is particularly unethical is where the lead is towards a finessing position and, if the finesse is taken, the card is replaced and won by a higher card. In this situation the ONLY reason for detaching the card is to persuade declarer that the card detached is the one that will be played, and the substitution of a different card to win the trick is just as unethical as unnecessarily hesitating in second seat to try and persuade declarer you have the vital card.

Hesitation in bidding is equally unethical. Bids should be made in tempo, and, if there is suddenly a longer pause than previously in bidding, the person pausing is, in effect, telling his partner that he is considering bidding. His partner must not make use of this unauthorized information. Typically a low level auction may die at the two level, (i.e. with the successful bidder contracting to make about 8 tricks) but if the player in the antepenultimate seat hesitates before passing the person in the final seat should not bid on low values. For example, my partner and I have an unwritten agreement that we will not normally allow our opposition to play in a contract where they only require 8 tricks to succeed, and the last player will often bid on lower than normal values, with the low level bidding implying that his partner may well have some values. If, however, his partner has hesitated before passing, (thus implying himself that he has some values) the last player should not, ethically, make such a bid. A player should understand that his hesitation has such implications, and a good guideline is – if you hesitate longer than normal, bid, for otherwise you know your partner is essentially silenced.

TUESDAY BRIDGE

For the last 7-8 months we have held bridge on Tuesday afternoons, and while those attending have in general enjoyed it, the low attendance level means that the section loses money for these sessions. We have therefore reluctantly decided to cancel the Tuesday Bridge until further notice. We will still continue to play on Sunday afternoons at 2.30 pm, where we have a normal attendance of between 6 and 9 tables.

Easter Egg Decorating Ideas to add to your Collection

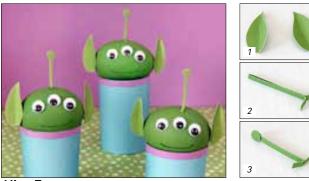

Egg-cellent Fun

How To:

Just dip the craft eggs half way in paint. (If you are using real eggs, be sure to pin-pop them first and drain the egg out!) Pop them paint side up into an egg carton and leave to dry. Glue on elastic bands around the top half and glue bottle tops to the band. Place small circle stickers on the front of the bottle tops and draw the eyes. Cut flippers out of felt or foam and glue onto a piece of board. Then put a good dollop of glue on the flippers to keep the little dude standing.

Alien Eggs

You'll need:

- Hard-boiled eggs dyed alien green (you can use food colouring or dye)
- Scissors
- Craft paper (green, blue, and purple)
- Toilet tissue tubes or paper towel tube
- Paper hole punch
- Glue stick
- Glue dots
- Fine-tipped black marker

Instructions:

- 1. Cut out a pair of green paper ears for each alien. Fold the ears in half to create a centre crease, as shown.
- 2. Fashion an antenna for each alien by first folding a 3-inch long thin strip of green paper in half and gluing the two sides together, stopping 1/8-inch from the ends. Then fold the ends out to the sides, as shown.
- 4. Create a stand for each egg by wrapping blue paper around a section of a toilet tissue or paper towel tube and securing the overlapped edges with glue. Add a thin strip of purple paper around the top of the tube for a collar.

- 5. Set the eggs sideways atop their stands. Use glue dots to attach the ears and antennae. Add three eyes to each egg, placing the centre one slightly higher than the other two.
- 6. For the finishing touch, draw a wide smile on each alien (this is easier to do if you remove the egg from the stand and hold it in one hand while drawing with the other).

Red Queen Easter Egg

You'll need:

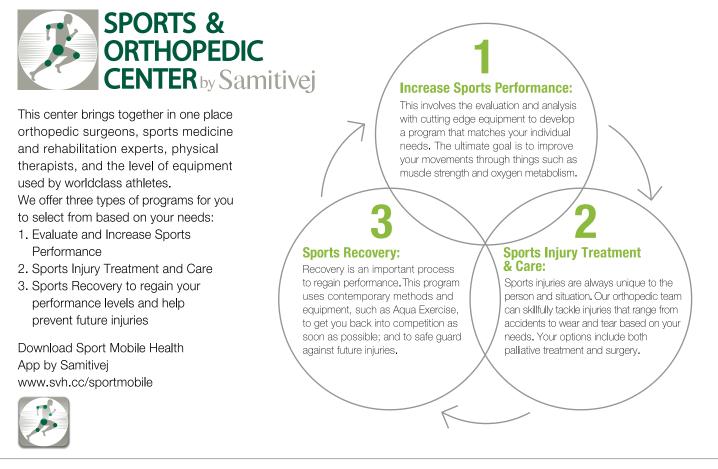

- White hard-boiled egg
- Scissors
- Craft paper (green, yellow or gold, and white paper doilies)
- Black plastic bottle cap
- Blue coloured pencil
- Fine-tipped black marker
- Tiny sticker heart or paper heart (about 1/4-inch wide by 3/8-inch high)
- Fine-tipped black marker

Instructions:

- 1. Cut the queen's hair from red paper and a crown from yellow or gold paper.
- 2. Snip tabs in the lower edge of the red hair shape as shown in the picture.
- 3. Fold all but the centre tab back. Then trim the centre tab to create a small widow's peak.
- 4. If you like, you can give the hair even more of a curly dimensional effect by gluing on several red paper circles.
- 5. Glue the crown to the hair. Set the hair aside for now.
- 6. Cut out a pair of eyes from paper and shade in the spaces above the pupils with blue coloured pencil. Then use the black marker to draw on eyelashes. Use glue dots to stick the eyes onto the egg.
- 7. Stick the heart sticker (or paper heart) in place for the mouth. Then draw a short, thin frown line right across the center of the heart.
- 8. Draw two small nostril lines right above the heart mouth and a round beauty mark on one cheek.
- 9. Now create a stand for the egg. First, fashion a white shirt collar for the queen by folding a white paper doily into a triangle. Press the centre of the triangle down into the bottle cap so that the corners stick up. Then set the egg in the cap atop the paper.
- 10. Finally, set the hair piece atop the egg and use bits of glue dots to stick the folded tabs to the egg.
